Oxford International Corporate Training

BACKGROUND

Oxford International Corporate Training was established by a group of educators, all living and working in Oxford, with excellent connections in the University. Many of our training programmes take place in the University itself, either in one of the colleges, or in the famous Oxford Union buildings.

Our administrative and teaching staff have over twenty years' experience of working with international clients on various training projects at senior level. OISC has some of Oxford's leading trainers, in many spheres of business, industry, and government.

AREAS OF EXPERTISE

In the past, we have organised programmes for managers and staff from the following sectors:

Education (teachers and educational managers)
Local Government
Finance & Banking
Tourism & Hospitality Management
Information Technology
Leadership and Management
Customer Relations

International Relations
Data and Communications
Marketing & Media
Business Management
International Law
Intercultural Communications
Construction & Planning

PRICING

We price our programmes according to your requirements. Recent programmes have involved fees of between £300 and £2,000 per day, excluding accommodation and additional cultural programme. We can offer a range of accommodation, from two- to five-star standard.

Programmes for Companies and Organisations

We have many years' experience in welcoming individuals and groups from international companies and organisations for short, tailor-made programmes in Oxford.

ADVANTAGES OF OUR PROGRAMMES

We have a reputation for excellence. The leader of a group of senior bankers from one of the largest bankers in China, who recently attended an OICT programme, said that they had attended training courses in New York, Canada, and Singapore, but this was undoubtedly the best. Detailed feedback from a variety of sectors is available on request.

We are able to arrange introductions to major figures in local and national government, industry, and commerce, enabling your staff to make contacts with appropriate business leaders during their programme, increasing opportunities for future business contracts and outsourcing.

Many of our seminars are held in the university, providing excellent training venues and facilities, and are led by guest speakers from Oxford's two universities. We can arrange for your staff to dine in one of the colleges of Oxford University. All our staff have experience of international business and training. We draw upon expertise not only from the business world, but also the educational sector.

The increasing globalisation of companies and organisations leads to a greater need for intercultural business communications in English. We have enormous experience in integrating these skills into our training schedules, if required.
